King's Stop at Wainwright To Be Fittingly Celebrated

Royal Welcome Planned for Royal Visitors

BIG GALA FOR WHOLE DAY

COMMITTEES ALL WORKING TO GIVE CROWD GOOD TIME

The several sub-committees of the June 3rd Celebration Committee appointed by the citizens are busy furthering the preparations to entertain the largest crowd ever to visit our town.

This will no doubt prove a stupendous task, but with the co-operation of the citizens and the addition of the members of council to their ranks, all are determined to make the affair the outstanding event in the history of Wainwright.

Royal Now on the Way.
Their Majesties, who left Regina on Saturday last, are due to arrive in Wainwright on their special train at 6:55 a.m. on June 3rd next and remain here for 20 minutes; they will not doubt be greeted here by thousands of their loyal subjects.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate these huge numbers and a special squad of 25 members of the R.C.M.P., under Inspector Tucker, of Yegreville, assisted by about 100 members of the local Canadian Legion, will be on hand at the depot for the purpose of keeping order and helping to handle the crowd in orderly manner.

Close Streets for Safety.
Vehicular traffic will be closed for three blocks on First avenue, as well as one block each on Main street, King street and Queen street (these being one street east and west respectively of Main).

Special parking spaces are being set apart in areas for cars and other transportation, and those will be assigned to men who will have authority to keep the parking orderly and the lanes to and from the cars on the lots open for use.

Special Places for Children.
School children from outside points covering a wide area will join with the children of Wainwright schools, and under the direction of Dr. H. C. Wallace and Mr. L. Good, Inspector of schools, and a number of other willing gentlemen, they will be placed with their teachers in the space being provided at the station grounds prior to the arrival of the train.

A pilot train will arrive here about 30 minutes previous to the one bearing Their Majesties, and a guard train will follow. The space allotted for public use is to be roped off, and the yards will be cleared, which will give room for many thousands to see the train and its occupants.

Other Distinguished Guests.
The space on the platform itself is reserved for the touring party which, aside from the King and Queen and their immediate attendants, consists of the Governor-General of Canada (Lord Tweedsmuir), Prime Minister Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Lieutenant Governor J. C. Bowen, Premier W. A. A. Abbott, Hon. J. A. Macdonald, M.P., and other distinguished public men and their ladies.

"Come To The Fair."
Following the departure of the royal train, the school children will march to the Fair Grounds, where an elaborate program of sports of all kinds is being arranged by the committee in charge (Messrs. Mackenzie and Horn and their helpers) and, in addition, horse races under the able direction of Mr. Steve Bowman will be run off during the afternoon.

Full Blast Midway.
A full midway will be on the grounds for the whole day, as well as a dancing pavilion, and at dusk a monster fireworks display will add to the enjoyment.

Provision is being made for a drinking supply of water both at the fair grounds and in town for the children. Meeting all day, the committee will be on hand to give the utmost of service to the thousands who, it is expected, will be visiting us on Saturday, June 3rd next.

The Elite theatre, too, has made special arrangements for the showing all day long of the big feature film, "Alexander's Rag Time Band."

With the full co-operation of everyone, the day should prove such an one as will never be forgotten by both adults and youngsters alike—the visit of their King and Queen to Canada and WAINWRIGHT.

RED DEER TO GIVE BIG LIBERAL CONVENTION

Executive members of the Alberta Liberal Association at Edmonton on May 1 began preparation of a provincial platform for the provincial election. Meeting all day, the executive will convene again in Red Deer June 1, to complete its work before the meeting of the general council of the party in Red Deer on June 3, when a full attendance from all over Alberta is being arranged.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. J. W. O'Neil, B.N., of Viking, who is again coming to bed owing to continued illness.

LOCAL LADY IS BEREAVED

Friends of Mrs. Beech will be sorry to hear of the sad passing of her mother, Mrs. Anderson, who passed away Sunday at the Holy Cross Hospital in Calgary after a lengthy illness. Mrs. Anderson left Wainwright only two months ago to the day, May 7th. She leaves to mourn her loss Mrs. Beech, of Wainwright, another daughter, Pearl, of Saskatoon, and one son, Joseph, of Semans, Sask., also several brothers and other relatives in Saskatchewan.

The remains were forwarded to Saskatoon for burial on Tuesday.

Letting the Whole Dominion Know!

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will have a corps of nearly 50 announcers, commentators, engineers and producers on constant duty during the visit of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Canada from May 15 to June 15.

From the moment the royal party is sighted off the coast of Newfoundland on May 13 to the departure from Halifax a month later, this staff of broadcasters will attend and report upon every major public function with Their Majesties' tour. Through the 10,000-mile route they will be provided with batteries of microphones and other technical equipment to ensure coverage of every moment of interest.

Charged with the full responsibility of bringing eye-witness accounts of coronations and festivities of the royal tour to radio listeners, CBC has now completed most of the preparations.

Commentators From All Sections.
This week, the Corporation announced the names of the men selected to carry out this most important and sustaining reportage assignment in the history of broadcasting. Following a Dominion-wide canvass with in the ranks of the Corporation's own personnel and extending to outside broadcasting organizations, 14 young men, whose average age is in the early thirties, have been given the coveted assignment of describing the tour. The commentators chosen will attend a special lecture series at Ottawa, where the extensive preparations of the CBC will be finally reviewed. They will be instructed by naval and military authorities and others conversant with the technical terms and formalities attendant upon the description of Their Majesties' visit.

Weeks in advance, each commentator has been assigned to his specific duties for the duration of the royal fair. The position of each microphone to be used has been mapped. Every detail of the broadcasting schedule will be carried out under the supervision of two chief commentators, R. T. (Bob) Bowman, director of CBC Special Events, and T. O. Wiklund, assistant to Mr. Bowman. Each will be in charge of a unit, and the two groups will operate on a "leapfrog" schedule which will take them from Quebec City to the Pacific Coast and back to the Atlantic seaboard.

Record Entry for Lloyd Bull Sale

On Tuesday, May 30th, 47 bulls will enter the ring for the 30th Annual Interprovincial Auction Sale and Show of Pure Bred Bulls under the auspices of the Lloydminster Agricultural Exhibition Association. This sale has developed into the second largest sale in Saskatchewan and the only sale in either province where bidders from both provinces contribute.

With 24 Shorthorns, 17 Herefords and 6 Aberdeen Angus richly bred, tuberculin-tested bulls to be sold, the purchasers are assured of plenty of breeding, quality and type to select from.

It is generally agreed that with best prices on the rise the present is the opportune time to secure stock. For a catalogue of the sale write to G. M. Cook, Secretary-Manager, Lloydminster.

Mother's Day

MOTHER'S DAY

Gentle hands that never weary, telling in love's vineyard sweet, Eyes that seem forever cherishing when our eyes they chance to meet, Tender, patient, brave, devoted, this is always mother's way. Could her worth in gold be quoted as you think of her today?

There she'll never be another quite so tender, quite so kind, As the patient little mother, somewhere on this earth you'll find Her affection duplicated; none so proud if you are fine, Could her worth be overrated? Not by any words of mine.

Death stood near the hour she bore us, agony was hers to know, Yet she bravely faced it for us, smiling in her time of woe; Down the years how oft we've tried her, often selfish, heedless, blind, Yet with love along to guide her she was never once unkind.

Vain are all our tributes to her if in words alone they dwell, We must live the praises due her; there's no other way to tell Gentle mother that we love her. Would you say as you recall All the patient service of her, you've been worthy of it all?

—Edgar A. Guest.

Eddie Cantor As Hero of the Harem

Delivering a brimming measure of typical Cantorian entertainment—those characteristic dices which have made the saucer-eyed comic a perennial favorite of stage, screen and radio—this potpourri of modern and medieval clowning, "All Baba Goes to Town," easily earns a rating as a definite hit.

A smart screen-play skilfully blends the atmosphere of modern Hollywood with that of ancient Baghdad, through the formula expedient of a Cantor dream. By way of getting into the dream section, Cantor plays a star-struck youth heading for Hollywood to collect autographs, and afterwards he is seen in the crowd, outside the Carthy Circle preview of the film with a radio announcer halting the first string Twentieth Century-Fox talent, plus such ringers as Douglas Fairbanks, as they arrive, Cantor coming last and stealing the show, while his microphone to sing a song while "All Baba" looks on from the sidelines.

Ample opportunity is afforded for plenty of gorgeous production, liberally sandwiched between an abundance of laugh-inspiring gags, which are the ribbing of the audience, while Cantor applies New Deal multiple to tenth-century Arabia, and the magic carpet light, as top.

It is also mentioned that "All Baba Goes to Town," which will be at the Elgin theatre this week, and is being in the platform, will be coming currently to the stage.

COUNCIL MAKES WORTHY GRANT FOR CELEBRATION

Use of Streets and Town Lots for Continuous Parking to be Checked Up; Looking for Historical Monuments; Town "Clean-Up" Next Week.

Following is a record of the proceedings of the council of the Town of Wainwright at its regular meeting on Tuesday, May 2nd, when there were present Mayor Middlemas and Councillors Lismore, Huntingford, Billing and Cork.

The recorded proceedings of council at its regular meeting of April 18th, 1939, were read, and also the recorded proceedings of the court of revision of the same date and on motion by Councillor Cork, the records of both meetings were adopted and confirmed as written.

On motion by Councillor Huntingford, it was resolved that the request of a grant in the sum of $400, as made by the June 3rd King's Visit Celebration Committee, be granted, they to undertake the whole affair and to attend to policing and such other necessary expenses as may arise.

The requisition of the Wainwright Roman Catholic Separate School District No. 31 was received and, on motion by Councillor Lismore, was ordered filed pending the compiling of the annual estimates.

An inquiry from Mr. A. G. Ewers, R.R. 2, Manville, Alberta, requested the time of the arrival of the royal train at Wainwright, and on motion by Councillor Huntingford, the request was ordered passed on to the celebration committee for answering.

Mrs. Mary O'Reilly made application for a lease of Lot 20 in Block 34 Plan 6445V, for gardening purposes in the current year, and on motion by Councillor Lismore, her request was granted on payment of the fee of $1.00 on the usual terms.

Mr. Frank Lush complained as to the parking of cars on the north side of 4th avenue in proximity to his building as at times cars back against his building and requested the establishment of a curb at this point, and on motion by Councillor Huntingford, his request will be complied with as soon as it is convenient for the utility man to attend to the matter.

Federal Election in The Fall is Forecast

A provincial general election will precede a Dominion vote, according to opinion prevailing in well-informed political circles here. But whether the vote will be this year or next year is a matter of wide speculation without anything very definite upon which to base a decision.

It will be recalled that in 1935 the provincial election was held on August 22 and the Dominion general election was held in the following October. It is believed that the present provincial government will desire to appeal to country prior to the vote across the country.

Until recently the opinion was general that there would be a Dominion election this year and in support of this belief are the nominating conventions held to select Liberal candidates.

KING & EMPEROR BRINGING QUEEN TO VISIT CANADA

LONDON, May 6th.—The King and Queen today heard from 72 Canadian war veterans "the three heartiest cheers ever heard in Waterloo (London) station." As Their Majesties started for Portsmouth to embark on their voyage to Canada, Capt. J. Aldridge, commander of the honor guard of Canadian ex-servicemen, doffed his blue beret and led the cheers, which both the King and Queen acknowledged by waving and smiling in return.

PORTSMOUTH, May 6th.—King George and Queen Elizabeth sailed from this naval base today for their record-breaking trip to General Eisenhower and the United States and Newfoundland, amid the salute of warships and shore batteries, and lusty cheers of thousands of their subjects.

The Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia," glistening under her new coating of white paint, weighed anchor at 3 p.m. B.D.T. (7 a.m. M.S.T.) and headed out across the Atlantic ocean bound for Quebec City.

As the mooring ropes were cast off and they pulled the liner's nose slowly out from the dock, the King and Queen stood watching flag-decked warships in the harbor and the cheering thousands of spectators massed on the shore.

Frequently they waved as the ship drew away and as the liner passed through the narrow harbor mouth, the roar of the cheering and thunder of salutes rolled out.

Princess Elizabeth and Margaret were present at the civic reception and sent good-bye to their parents aboard the liner—the first they have ever boarded. They returned to London with other members of the royal party present at the departure.

With Their Majesties at the dock were Queen Mary, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

Edmonton Grads to Hold Radio Listeners Appreciation Night

Edmonton, May 6.—Coach Percy Page, of the world-famous Edmonton Grads basketball team, today announced that the first game in the coming series with a team from Cleveland, on Saturday, May 13, at the Edmonton Arena, will be called the "Radio Listeners' Appreciation Night."

It is the belief of Coach Page that thousands who have enjoyed the broadcasts of Grads games will be willing to show their appreciation of such broadcasts by attending at least one game in this series. Tickets are priced at 50c and 75c.

Banners and Bunting

By Thomas Waying

From sea to sea, from the international boundary to the sub-Arctic, Canada will be a blaze of colour when Their Majesties, the King and Queen, pay their first sovereign visit to Their Dominion of Canada. From the tallest buildings and the smallest homes, banners and bunting will be unfurled as Canada puts her loyalty and patriotism on display.

The nation's capital, the centres of population and of industry and the tiniest hamlets on the royal transcontinental route are already preparing for the Royal Visit. Federal, provincial and municipal governments are purchasing flags by the hundreds and bunting by the thousands of yards. But equally important, and equally colorful, will be the millions of little flags that will be held aloft in the proud hands of school children paying tribute to their beloved monarchs.

The Dominion Ministry of Public Works will spend $125,000 on flags, bunting and other decorations and has already ordered 1,200 flags and 4,000 yards of bunting. Not all this will be used in Ottawa, however. To every city where federal buildings and federal public works are located, an allotment has been made for decorations. Provincial and municipal authorities are also planning lavish decorations, while private companies and private citizens will add their displays to the colorful picture. Altogether considerably more than $500,000 will be spent on the greatest flag and bunting shopping spree the Dominion has ever known.

Predominant among the welcoming flags will be the Union Jack, officially and properly known as the Grand Union. This is the flag of Empire and the only official flag of the Dominion of Canada. It will therefore fly from all public buildings and predominate at all official functions. But as the beflagged nation welcomes its royal visitors it will display, along the royal route, a flag that is new to Canada and one that is symbolic of the visit to the Dominion of a reigning monarch. For the period of the visit the Royal Standard of England will become the Royal Standard of Canada and during this time Canada will fly a flag that can be seen nowhere else in the world.

Where the Royal Standard flies, there goes the King. Breaking of the great red and gold emblem signifies the royal presence. On land and on water, on the prairie and mountain-side, lake and river, the Royal Standard will float proudly on the breeze, taking on a new significance as an emblem of Empire. As the King leaves the "Empress of Australia" at historic Wolfe's Cove in Quebec, the ancient capital of Canada, the standard will flutter down, to reappear on the flagpole of the Citadel. In Ottawa the blue standard of the Governor-General, with its crown of gold, will come down and the Royal Standard will be hoisted as the King drives through the gates of stately Rideau Hall. When His Majesty drives to Parliament Hill the red-gold standard will unfurl from atop the Peace Tower. Except in the royal presence the banner may not legally be unfurled.

Across Canada a supply of Royal Standards has already been despatched so that the arrival of Their Majesties may be greeted by the proper flag. During the course of the royal tour, thousands of loyal Canadians will see for the first time the emblem that marks the personal visit of the Empire's ruler.

During the Coronation in London, the one great fear was that the pomp and circumstance might be marred by rain. Bedraggled flags and bunting present a forlorn picture and Canada will have the same fear as London had, since the King and Queen arrive in Spring, when April showers may flow over into May.

Canada, however, may well be prepared for such an emergency. In Toronto the Canadian National Exhibition has long found the weather to be the greatest enemy of its brilliant decorations. Last year it tried an experiment. A new and permanent water-repellent and stain-proofing agent for textile materials had been discovered in England by research chemists and had been brought to Canada by C.I.A. Its name was "Velan" and the great gonzon rising on the tallest flagpole in the British Empire at the Exhibition was made of material treated with this new repellent. High above the heads of Exhibition crowds, with the winds and rain Lake Ontario beating on it, this monster Union Jack remained unblemished and unmarred. Instead of the three flags usually needed during the Exhibition period, one flag sufficed.

"Velan" is therefore being used to treat and protect many of the flags and much of the bunting intended for the Royal Visit decorations. In addition to providing protection against the possibility of rain, it slows up the disintegration of textile materials and will decrease the number of tattered banners which will wave greetings to the King and Queen.

The glimmers of centuries of Empire history, the romance of great names and great deeds and the thrill of homage paid by a free people will surround the Royal Visit. And in the flags that will be displayed are contained many romances, old and new. The red, white and blue of Union Jack make gay contrast, but they also tell a fascinating story. Within the Jack are the Cross of St. George, the ancient banner of England, the Cross of St. Andrew, the banner of Scotland, and Ireland's Cross of St. Patrick. And each cross is displayed superimposed on its own correct background. This is, too, a right and wrong way to fly the Union Jack. The broad white diagonal must be uppermost, next the flagstaff.

Three ensigns, the White, the Red and the Blue, originated with the division of the British fleets into centre, van and rear. Each division had its admiral, vice-admiral and rear-admiral, and in order that each ship might distinguish her own flagstaff, the three separate ensigns were designed. The White Ensign consists of the red cross of St. George on a white field with the Union flag in the upper left hand corner. Its use is confined to the British Royal or Dominion navies and its use on any other vessel brings a $2,500 fine. The Blue Ensign is confined to ships in the public service and the Red Ensign is for the merchant marine.

Every British Dominion except Canada has an authorized flag of its own and all but the flag of Elze include the Union Jack in the design. Consequently, during the Royal Visit, the Red Ensign, with the Canadian coat of arms, will be flown in many parts of Canada, although its use on land is improper and officially illegal. Sir John A. MacDonald first ordered the Red Ensign used as the Canadian flag and for many years it was flown over all public buildings in Canada. Then a punctilious Canadian questioned the legality of its use. The Dominion Government referred the question to London and was notified that the Red Ensign could not be used on land. Immediately all the Red Ensigns were ordered down from public flagstaffs, to be replaced by Union Jacks. But the Canadian public, meanwhile, had accepted the flag as its own and it continues to fly, bravely but illegally, throughout the land.

Other proper and legal flags Canadians see less frequently. In 1838 the King, by Royal Warrant, authorized a special flag for use by the Governor-General, a blue field with a crown in gold, centred, and beneath the word "Canada" in black on a gold ground. This vice-regal flag, like the Royal Standard, marks the presence of the holder of the office for which it was designed. On ship or on shore it goes where the Governor-General goes. Canadian Government ships, or ships of the Canadian merchant marine commanded by Canadian or British naval reservists, fly the Blue Ensign, with the Canadian coat of arms on the fly. Ships of the Royal Canadian Navy fly the White Ensign at the stern with the Canadian Blue Ensign on the jack staff, at the bow. One other standard in Canada has Royal Warrant, the standard of Nova Scotia, a white flag with a blue cross and a red lion rampant on a yellow shield in the centre. Rights to its own standard were granted to Nova Scotia as far back as the year 1600, which makes this banner the oldest flag in the Dominion. It will undoubtedly be unfurled when the King and Queen visit that Maritime Province.

As the visit of Their Majesties expresses on the part of the people of Great Britain and the Royal Family a feeling of close relationship to the people of Canada, so the flags and bunting that will decorate the buildings, streets and homes of Canada will be the products of Canadian factories and they flutter in the breeze to the accompaniment of heart-felt cheers, they will symbolize the loyalty of an outpost of Empire to its King and Queen from across the seas.

Australia now has 1,371 motion picture theatres with 1,100,000 seats.

FOR LOW COST HAULING

Not in the days before the coming of machines either, but today, in some of the central European countries and other parts of the world, where, for lack of machinery or by Government decree, peasants ply the fields with bent backs and tired muscles trying to wrest a living from the soil.

Such contrasts with the favored lot of Canadian farmers whose tasks have been made easier and whose productive powers have been multiplied many fold, serve to emphasize the transformation that has been wrought by the use of machinery in the heavy back-breaking jobs of the farm.

Only by the help of modern machines is farming, on the scale and in the manner we know it, possible or profitable. Fewer people now raise the required foodstuffs of the world, while the others devote their energies to turning every conceivable raw material into commodities for the comfort, convenience, and pleasure of all, and provide an ever-expanding market for the products of the farm.

China, for instance, grows more than twice as much wheat each year as Canada—the average yearly production from 1931-35 being 813,000,000 bushels, although you hear little of it and it is not included in the official figures for world production, for it is a soft wheat used as a confection only and is but a handful per Chinaman. The significant fact, however, is that it takes the same man power per farm in China as in Canada, but with this difference, the average size farm in China is two acres, whereas in Western Canada it is 320 acres and that because of what machinery enables the Canadian farmer to do, and that spells the difference in the standard of living of the Canadian farmer in contrast to that of the Chinese farmer.

The progressive policy of Massey-Harris of anticipating the needs of the Canadian farmer and making available the latest in power equipment of greater productive ability has won for the Company an enviable reputation.

THE GOOSE AND THE GANDER

"That old proverb, 'What is good for the goose is good for the gander' was brought back to our mind vividly over the week-end. On Friday last the Retail Section of the Board of Trade, at their meeting, had a lengthy discussion on the ways and means to cope with peddlers who ply their wares from house to house.

We are in accord with the local merchants in their attitude that it is unfair competition, in so far as the local merchant pays taxes for the privilege of doing business in the town, have erected modern buildings and employ local help, while the peddler goes from house to house unattended, not paying one cent in the way of taxes, not building up the town by erecting a place of business or helping in the local employment situation. Furthermore, the peddler is here today and somewhere else tomorrow, while the local merchant is here year in and year out, standing right behind the quality of the goods he sells and in most cases serving the town in some useful capacity, probably as a member of the Council, Board of Trade, or taking a keen interest and fostering the community spirit through one or more of the service clubs.

This peddling and house to house canvassing could be controlled, it was pointed out, by local legislation, under power conferred in the town charter. The merchants considered that they were entitled to some protection in view of the heavy taxes they pay.

So much for one side of the picture. What does the reverse side show? It is common knowledge that a large number of commercial travellers canvass the town every week, not only for groceries, dry goods, fruits, tobacco, etc., commodities that have to be shipped in, but also for goods that are produced here such as flour, bread, flowers, printing, counter check books, etc. What is the attitude of the merchants towards these salesmen? Do they turn a deaf ear to their pleadings and support the local industries, or does the traveller leave with a nice order? Instead of the local producer getting a little profit on goods he could produce the traveller gets a commission. Surely the same power conferred in the town charter to protect the local retailer should also protect the local industry.—Lloydminster Times.

On motion by Councillor Lashmore, the report of the Finance Committee was received and accepted and the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer were authorized and instructed to issue cheques in payment of all accounts, included in the report, in a total of $1,421.31.

The Public Works Committee submitted the following report, viz:

Your Committee on Public Works beg to report as follows: We have attended to a subsidence in the roadway on both King Street and Queen Street by providing lighting for this to make safe at night, and would recommend that the utility man be instructed to make gravel fills of these places as convenient and that maintenance be used to level off surface. This subsidence is no doubt caused by height of water strata below roadway, and necessitates a ditch being dug out later at these two spots so as to allow for better drainage of excess water at these places.

On motion by Councillor Huntingford, the report of the Public Works Committee was received and accepted and the recommendation endorsed.

The Committee on Fire, Light and Utilities submitted the following report, viz:

Your Committee on Fire, Light and

Utilities beg to report as follows: That on account of the falling of the pump of your water well, your Committee instructed Mr. Reynolds (his delinquent to pull the rods and put in good working condition, which he has completed, by replacing the check valve leathers, and plunger leathers, repriming the ball valve, fitting new pump stem, and after re-assembling pump stem, we can now report that the water well and equipment are in good condition.

On motion by Councillor Cook, the report of the Committee on Fire, Light and Utilities was received and accepted.

The financial statement for the month of April, just past, was submitted to council by the Secretary-Treasurer, and, on motion by Councillor Lashmore, the financial statement as submitted by the Secretary-Treasurer was received and accepted and incorporated in the proceedings of this meeting.

On motion by Councillor Huntingford, it was resolved that a Town Clean-up Week be arranged, commencing May 15th next, and that a notice be inserted in the Wainwright Star, instructing all citizens to clear and rake all rubbish, etc., into piles in the lane at the rear of their premises for quick removal by the scavenger-rubbish to include all such junk as discarded machinery, old cars, etc.

Councillor Huntingford gave notice that, at the next regular meeting of council, he will move or cause to be moved a resolution restricting the regular meetings of council to one in each of the months of June, July and August of the current year.

On motion, council was regularly adjourned.

University of New Zealand, will speak for his people.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will next link India with the Empire, and one of the world's greatest poets will voice the greetings of the people of the Indian Empire. Returning to the western hemisphere, CBC will bring listeners to Jamaica, where a representative of the West Indies will speak. Newfoundland's message of loyalty will be given by a lawyer in St. John's.

The final portion of the 45-minute programme leading up to the address by His Majesty the King, will come from the British Isles. A school teacher will speak from Scotland; a linen-weaver on behalf of Northern Ireland; a miner from Wales; and the voice of England will be that of a boy serving aboard H.M. Training Ship "Conway".

Thus, the fundamental note throughout this programme of loyalty and homage will be the one existing between one family and another—the note of simplicity and spontaneity.

MILITIA NOTES

Warning Order

"A" Squadron, 10th Dragoons, will proceed to Edmonton for duty lining route for royal visit. Leave Chauvin 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 1st, 1939. Leave Edmonton 3 to 3:30 p.m. Leave Wainwright 4:30 p.m.

Transportation by trucks.

Friday will be devoted to duty re royal visit.

Saturday the Squadron will proceed to Winterburn for musketry practice. Sunday, as early as possible, will proceed back home, or as many as cannot take in the Winterburn trip, arrangements will be made to get those back on Saturday (if possible).

The Squadron will be billeted at the Commandant's Armories on the South Side. Sleeping accommodation and all meals will be provided; no pay can be promised but personnel of the Squadron may rest assured that if the grant allotted is large enough to cover any pay, it will be paid out as far as it goes.

Wainwright, Chauvin and Edgerton Troops will parade every Sunday afternoon, as arranged, under their own Troop Leaders. Uniforms and equipment will be issued also on these parades, and as awards will be worn on this duty it is most essential that all troops are well drilled in sword exercises.

The Regimental Commander expects to see every member of "A" Squadron who is actually on the strength of the Squadron, to attend the royal visit. "A" Squadron Commander also joins in this desire, for the honor of the Squadron, as well as the honor of the Regiment, and also consider the honor to himself in being given the opportunity of taking an active part on such a momentous occasion as a visit from their Majesties the King and Queen.

A cordial invitation, given to all the young men of the district to attend these parades and follow the example of so many fine young fellows who are showing their interest in the defense of their country by joining and serving in the Canadian (Non-Permanent) Militia. Your local units are: "A" Squadron H.Q. and 1st Troop located at the Armories, Chauvin; second troop located at Edgerton; third troop located at the Armories, P.O. Bldg., Wainwright.

Any information in connection with the Squadron and service will be gladly given by the following officers: Major W. J. CUBITT, E.D., Officer Commanding "A" Squadron, Chauvin; Lieut. D. R. Saul, Officer Commanding first troop, Chauvin; Sergeant G. MICHAEL, second in command, second troop, Edgerton; Capt. A. Glenn, second in command, "A" Squadron, Wainwright; Lieut. W. R. Morrison, Officer Commanding third troop, Wainwright.

(Signed) W. J. CUBITT
Major, O.C. "A" Squadron 10th Alberta Dragoons, Chauvin, Alberta.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

REMINISCES OF OTHER DAYS

TEN YEARS AGO

Mr. W. Gross, of Castor, has been hired as tailor and cutter at the W. B. Clark store.
Messrs. Forester and Co. have received a permit for the erection of a big addition to their showroom on Main Street.

A farewell party was held by the G.I.T. group in honor of Miss Prior, once Tory. She was the recipient of a lovely silver ring.

Mr. Miller, of Saskatoon, has been installed as new office man at the Associated Refineries plant.

Four inches of hail covered the ground in the district immediately south of Edgerton last week.

While repairing a tractor on the farm of Mr. E. Beasley, Mr. Guy Tory suffered a severe injury to one of his eyes. A piece of steel flew up and became imbedded. He was taken to the city for specialist treatment.

Miss Violet Muncester has received the appointment of marceller in the Hero barber shop.

A verandah has been added to the Wilkins home on Fourth avenue east, greatly improving the premises.

Miss Grace Welch returned to her home last week, having completed her year's course at the University.

The members of the local L.O.O.F. lodge paraded to St. Andrew's (Pres.) church on Sunday where Rev. Bro. W. S. Brooker preached a fitting sermon in commemoration of the anniversary of the Order.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Mr. R. McNern is erecting a house on his farm at Gilt Edge.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Crampton left on Sunday for a three-month holiday with relatives in the Old Country.

Having rented a house on Fourth avenue, Mr. W. G. Bowen has made arrangements to move his family here from the city.

Mah Kee, of Vegreville, has purchased the annex of the Wainwright hotel where he plans to open a first-class restaurant and boarding house.

SYDENHAM

Mr. and Mrs. Ford were visiting on Sunday at the home of their daughter.

The funeral of Mr. P. Romo, who was held last Monday, was well attended from this district.

Miss Alice Romo and relatives returned to their home in Montana on Thursday.

Mr. H. Mills and Mr. Harold Merrick were visiting in the district last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Goddard, of Gilt Edge, were visiting on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Seabrook.

A Social Credit meeting was held at the school house on Tuesday evening.

Mr. W. G. McKay is busy on his farm, putting in the crop.

Mr. F. Seabrook left for Edgerton on Wednesday for medical treatment.

Some nice showers of rain have fallen during the week.

SLIGO

(Too late for last week)

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McLean and family, of Sheepskin Flats, visited at the home of Mr. John McLean Sunday last.

Mr. Norman Garroch spent the week end at North Battleford with his brother, Dr. Gordon Garroch and family. He brought back a brand new Chev. light delivery truck.

What might have been a very serious fire started close to Dan McFadyen's house during the high wind on Saturday. With the help of neighbors the buildings and feed stacks were saved, although some farm implements were damaged. The fire is supposed to have started from a spark from the chimney.

On Friday last, Mr. Alex Postons and Mr. F. Pointon were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Avison. Later in the evening a number of friends and neighbors called to bid farewell to Mr. Pointon, who is leaving the district. He has been a resident of the Sligo district for the past 17 years. During the evening the guest of honor was presented with a leather billfold.

A good crowd attended the auction sale at Mr. Joe Hill's last Thursday in spite of the busy season.

SLIGO DISTRICT RESIDENT DIES IN EDMONTON

The funeral of Mr. Giles James, of the Sligo district, was held on Monday last at the Rosedale United church, interment being made in the cemetery there.

Mr. James, who was taken to hospital in Edgerton early last week, passed away on Saturday at the age of 70 years.

Left to mourn the loss are his wife, two daughters and three sons: Mrs. M. Pugh, of Hope Valley; Miss D. James, of Edgerton; and William, Milton and Stafford. One sister and four brothers also survive the deceased.

McLeod's parlors had charge of the local arrangements, when the body was shipped from the city.

Mr. W. Moffatt is back after spending the winter at the coast.

Dr. A. M. McGregor, well-known medical officer of Edgerton, passed away suddenly at the week end. He was 41 years of age.

A large crowd attended the presentation of the Wainwright Dramatic Club play, "The Black Feather" on Wednesday evening. It was under the direction of Mr. R. Dunmore and each player gave a creditable interpretation of his part.

Miss Verna Lois Fieldhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Fieldhouse, of Wainwright, and Mr. Henry Joseph Appleton, were married at a private ceremony in Edgerton on Saturday evening.

North Edgerton

Picking up the last issue of The Farm and Ranch Review I was surprised and delighted to read an interesting letter by Mr. H. B. Thomas, of Edgerton, therein.

Congratulations, Mr. Thomas. This letter, which dealt with "Successful Methods of Summer-fallowing", gave a very practicable and efficient remedy which, if followed, should be found to be both successful and profitable. I might add that Mr. Thomas' letter not only took first prize but also brought him a handsome cash award.

Over the past week light rains have fallen. Farmers are hoping that these rains will cease until the spring work is over.

Miss Joyce Holland resumed her schooling at the Wainwright convent recently.

Instead of wheat acreage being reduced this spring, farmers are sowing more land to wheat than in recent years. Wheat land is about 90 per cent. seeded and quite a lot of rye is being sown for early hay, while the coarse grains will follow the action of wheat, more land being allotted.

The different baseball and softball teams are getting in readiness for another season of good sport.

GREENSHIELDS

Miss A. Dupuis, of Wainwright, has been visiting Miss F. Charter for several days.

Early last week Mr. Ed. Patterson went to Wainwright hospital with pneumonia. From latest reports he is progressing favorably.

Miss Marie Perkins has been ill at the Valleau home for some time and on Saturday evening went to Wainwright hospital.

Miss Evelyn McIntee is at home suffering from a severe cold.

To all the sick we extend the best wishes of the community for a speedy recovery.

Mr. P. E. Patterson had the misfortune to have one of his work horses die on Sunday.

On Mother's Day, May 14th, Rev. T. E. Armstrong will hold service in the school house. You are cordially invited to attend.

We are sorry to hear Mrs. I. Stouffer is among the latest "flu" sufferers.

We get plenty of surprises from the weather. Let's hope the snow on Monday afternoon will be the last of the season.

Sheepskin Flats

A Lutheran Church service was held at the school on Sunday last, with quite a large attendance. The next service will be held June 4th at 3 p.m.

The farmers of the district are busy inoculating their horses against the dreaded disease, encephalomyelitis.

Mr. Elwood Plaxton, of Gilt Edge, visited his brother, Mr. Marvin Plaxton, on Sunday last.

We are pleased to report that little Louise Tondy, who has been on the sick list lately, is feeling much better these days.

Mr. Lee Traynor, of Gilt Edge, visited with Mr. George Noskes on Sunday.

Mr. Bonner, of Wainwright, was in the district last week buying cattle.

EDGERTON

The rain on Friday was welcomed by farmers (those fortunate enough to get some) but scorned by many of the younger set who had been eagerly looking forward to a dance after the show. Rained conditions prevented the Wainwright orchestra making the trip and while we sympathize with the disappointed ones, we are bound to admit that moisture for the land is much more important than a dance just now.

From an authentic source we learn that Peter Milne will be returning this week. We strongly suspect he feels the urge to get to work in his garden, now that spring is really here (?).

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Archer have moved into the house recently vacated by the Ivan Kimball family.

Mrs. Haines, of Lloydminster, paid a brief visit to her parents, Rev. A. and Mrs. Love on Friday, returning home early Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Coupland, of the Chasvin branch of the Bank of Montreal, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs.

Davis at the local bank.

Our guess last week about the Edmonton Grads was correct alright; we just felt they would remain World Champions. It is to be hoped that some kind-hearted sponsor will take pity on basketball fans and broadcast the games to commence on Saturday next; so that we who are unable to attend may do the next best thing, and listen.

Extensive alterations are in progress at the rear of Wilson's blacksmith and repair shop, and alterations always seem to suggest that good times are returning. We hope so.

Bob Doyle, an old timer of this district, who has been ill for a considerable period, was taken hospital on Saturday. We understand that he is a very sick man indeed, and extend sincere sympathy to him.

HEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Love visited amongst the Anglican congregation last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Davis motored to Hughenden on Sunday and to Wainwright to visit their son Stanley who is in the hospital there.

Leo Mosier spent a few days in Edgerton on business over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Withnell, sr., celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at a family reunion at Mr. McLeod's home in Wainwright.

Henry Touchette is recovering from his recent illness and expects to be home soon.

MURRAY-MILES NUPTIALS CONDUCTED AT EDGERTON

Rev. Andrew Love officiated at the ceremony when Ruth C. Miles, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Miles, of Empire District, became the wife of E. Stanton Murray, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Murray, of McLaughlin, at 5 p.m. Tuesday, May 2nd at St. Mary's (Ang.) church, Edgerton.

Many friends from Saddle Hill and Sligo districts witnessed the ceremony, in company with well wishers from town.

The bride was given away by her father and was attired in a becoming crepe dress of delicate lavender shade with front panel of embroidered stitching and a blue and lavender corsage. A smart velled hat in a deeper tone and navy blue accessories completed her costume.

Her attendant, Miss Joey Davidson, also wore a dress of crepe in queen's blue with embroidered high-waisted cape and hair hat to match.

At the conclusion of the service following the usual bombardment with confetti and rice, the wedding party proceeded to the home of the bride's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Miles, where a most delectable buffet luncheon was enjoyed by some 20 relatives and intimate friends.

A handsome three-tiered wedding cake occupied a prominent position, and very generous servings brought the repeat to a conclusion, after which pictures were taken, then the guests viewed the wide variety of gifts which were on display, evidence that the couple are held in high esteem.

Shortly after 5 p.m. the newly-weds departed for a brief honeymoon trip, and upon their return will reside on the groom's farm at McLaughlin.

Pranksters who had spent much time tinkering about the "honeymoon chariot" were bitterly disappointed when they discovered they had trimmed up the wrong one, because the groom and his father had previously agreed to exchange cars but had kept mum about it. Mr. Murray, sr., cheerfully climbed aboard the decorated coupe to drive to his home, remarking as he did so: "I did it once before, so a second time can't do any harm."

Broadcasting the Royal Visit

CBC'S ROYAL VISIT MICROPHONES

With the construction of a new type of outdoor microphone, the Engineering Department of the CBC has overcome one of its major obstacles in connection with an uninterrupted broadcast account of the royal visit. This new microphone, which can be used in all kinds of weather, is equipped with a special wind-resisting device for the elimination of weather and other extraneous sounds. Seen in the inset, the microphone is decorated with the royal insignia and will be used whenever Their Majesties engage in out-of-doors broadcasting. The two gold-plated microphones, seen in position on the table, will be used whenever His Majesty the King speaks from an indoor location, such as on Empire Day, May 24, when radio listeners throughout the British Commonwealth of Nations will hear His Majesty speaking from Winnipeg.

NEWER FEATURES DISTINGUISH THE Cockshutt "Tiller Combine"

We have the implement for modern progressive farmers—and at a reasonable price. Many valuable features distinguish the "TILLER COMBINE"—make it the choice of the successful farmer. The No. 33 Deluxe, with enclosed oil bath clutch, sealed against dust, dirt and grit, blanket bearings on land wheel and controls, new type, dirt-proof, disc gang bearings, exceptional angle of cut, long wearing heat-treated steel discs; and the lighter clean cut No. 35 Speed Tiller, with its "semi-overhead" frame, new "self-adjusting Safety Hitch", new "Twin Disc" land wheel and "Double Acting" depth control, are years ahead. Come in and see the "Tiller Combine" gives you most for your money.

A Thrilling Story of a Mysterious Inheritance

3 Strange Men

by C. T. PODMORE, Author of "The Fault", etc.

CHAPTER I

A QUEER SITUATION

"Steve Cordery—are you there?"

The voice of a half-dressed old man who peered from the door of his bedroom, sounded through the dusky hallways of the house.

"Are you there, Steve Cordery?"

No response. He closed the door, and, half-dressed as he was, shuffled back into bed.

He was ill. For nineteen years skipper of a trading schooner of his own in the remote South Seas, Geoffrey Parmiter had faced death—horrible death—so often that he was not afraid to die. But the uncanny idea of dying in a bed uninvited him.

Soon he got up again, and from his threshold called in a wailing, impatient, desperate voice, "Steve Cordery will you come out from where you're hiding and let me see you?"

And again Steve Cordery did not respond.

There were definite memories and ideas at the back of old Geoffrey Parmiter's hallucinations.

They were matters of which one or two persons in the past had shared some knowledge, authentic as things go in conversation aboard ship, and based on ancient rumor; matters which must find an issue someday in those latitudes. That lawless sea-chief, Dan Shard, was one who lost his ship, and was probably done for long since. But the inside story had been largely guesswork.

At some time or other, an Indian potentate had been murdered for jewels and gold. Geoffrey Parmiter had had nothing to do with that. It might have been two hundred years before his time. Something he had heard about the old buccaners indicated that it may have been an affair round Castimbar, for it seemed to link up with the fate of Winch and his pirate crew, who had gone South at the time—it was said, to the Solomons—and were never seen aloft any more. Most likely their ship had broken on one of those island reefs where the frothy brown water swirled.

If they were the thieving murderers, Geoffrey Parmiter had seen what remained of Winch and his crew. Their dried and savage countenances had their place in a semit string of heads that swung from a remote crossbeam in an ancient native death house. After all the years, those shrivelled faces had a look of compunction, as if they had caught in their last expression a dim idea of peace.

Steve Cordery's must be, too, in some such place, looking like that. No more hate, no greed, no vile treachery. Steve had paid for his prying into the secret of Parmiter's quest for treasure. When it was got, Geoffrey had fought him violently in self-defence; and in the last agony it was Steve who fell over the gunwale and was left. And crowds of bearded natives huddled like black ghosts beyond the ship's lantern-lights, and took Steve's body from the water—alive.

In some obscure reading Geoffrey Parmiter had found that one of the lost possessions of the Great Mogul of Clive's day was a large square diamond, sheathed with light, just such a gem as lay in the little velvet-lined box he had; possibly this gem was it. But everything he had gained from the adventure was beautiful and amazing, more than enough to realise all his dreams of wealth and enjoyment, had not the shadow of Steve Cordery come between. He could not bear this shadow about the house and among his ideas, signifying that the treasure which had wrought such evil was now to continue its curse in London.

These things made up the state of Geoff Parmiter's mind just now. When he realised that something must be done about it, he sent for his son, George.

George Parmiter had heard hints of the treasure story from time to time, but had no belief in the existence of something which he had never been allowed to see. What had divided father and son was a social matter—simply that old Geoffrey would not hear of George's attachment to Steve Cordery's daughter, Sophie, alone, to whom George's mind was quite made up.

George was in his office in the Tottenham Court-road, where he was for the last time, as a forlorn hope; for his father, it seemed, had already moved, and his lawyers were about to take up the matter. He read doubt, Mr. Torkey's face, as if the business of the lawyer seemed to go still deeper into his own ideas, as he commented slowly on his client's confinement to bed. "Still not feeling too well, Mr. Parmiter?" he said. "That's what I thought when you letter arrived, stating the appointment with your son so urgently. My partners agree with me that this is a very singular business."

"Nonsense!" said George. "He'll never be a sheer hulk if he lives till he's ninety."

"I do believe you," agreed Jowle. "If they journeyed together to the scene of Geoffrey Parmiter's travels, which, in fact, was a relic of old days and had its little garden at the back and front. Jowle had a key. No one else was about the place. From upstairs, as they entered, came a dismal growling sound, followed by a powerful adjuration. "Way there for Geoff Parmiter. Faithful below."

"What's all this noise about?" interrupted George on the threshold of the bedroom.

Geoffrey Parmiter was a huge bulk of a man, his face as red and apparently as hard as a brick, and his hands like gnarled oak. He sat up straight, showing the braces over his thick shoulders.

"Jowle," he said, "you can go below."

Jowle retired downstairs, and George took a chair by the bed. Then old Geoff looked hard at his son.

"I want to know," he said, "if you are as pigheaded as ever. Are you?"

"Oh, yes," George cheerfully replied, "on your son, and you tell me I can't ever think of marrying Sophie Cordery, and remain on good terms with you; so what am I to do?"

"Give her up—right away."

"Can't be done."

For a sick man, Geoffrey Parmiter made a formidable business of beating one hand upon the other.

"Listen. The time's short," he said. "Steve Cordery was my mate on the Beloved, and he wasn't a good 'un. Then something happened . . . but nobody liked him, except a bunch of niggers on one of the islands. They ate him, anyhow."

"Horrible!" said George.

"I bet he was," agreed old Geoffrey. "Of course, Sophie needn't know that. Her father's quite . . . well, he's peaceful anyhow. If I could only get him to say it. Now you can't have Sophie Cordery and be real rich as well. You know there's wealth—a whole big fortune—never your mind where. Steve Cordery tried to murder me out of it, and I'd sooner give it away than have it touch his people. You do mean to stick to Sophie, don't you?"

"Right. You'll be hearing soon what I've arranged—is that somebody coming here?"

There was the sound of a car outside.

George Parmiter, no more impressed than usual about the matter, went and looked through the window.

"Looks like a doctor," he said, "coming up the garden."

"No doctor for me," his father growled. "It's one of my lawyers I'm expecting. Jowle will let him in. Sit still."

George resumed his chair.

In a few minutes the man Jowle ushered into the room a brownish, sharp-eyed man, approaching middle age.

George Parmiter knew that the management of certain properties and investments of his father were in the hands of a city firm of lawyers—Reed, Price and Torkey—but which this was he did not know. He had never been personally in touch with them.

"This," said Geoffrey to the visitor, "is my son George, a stupid fellow. He is here to listen to what's going to be done about this private business you've got in hand. You can tell him, Torkey. Sit down there by the table."

CHAPTER II

Mr. Torkey, his eyes like beads, stood with his back to the fireplace as if he had not heard the invitation to sit down. A look of profound de-

They are to remain strangers to Mr. Parmiter, as he will be to them. It has been discussed. It is, of course, eccentric. I have tried to make clear about Sophie Cordery had been test-

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

TO MOTHERS ON MOTHERS' DAY

"At long last we, your children, have donated a day each year to you, our Mothers. You have given thousands of days to us, sacrificed that we might enjoy pleasures, remained awake that we might sleep, gone without that we might have, borne our sorrows, eased our pains, shared our secrets, and saved for us. We give you the fourteenth of May and pledge ourselves to make it your happiest day. Rest, Mother! We, your children, are today your slaves."

What more need be said on this day allotted to Mothers? I rest my case by placing before daughters every-where some easily-followed recipes that YOU may use to prepare a novel dish or two for YOUR Mother on Mothers' Day.

Brilliant Chocolate Delicacy

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup powdered sugar
2 eggs
2 squares melted chocolate
1/2 cup ground Brazil nuts
Cream butter, stir in sugar gradually and cream together. Add the egg yolks, slightly beaten, and mix well. Stir in melted chocolate and Brazil nuts. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease two shallow cake pans and pour one-third of the batter into each, reserving the rest for filling. Bake in a moderate oven, 325° F., twenty minutes. Remove from pans and put together with the reserved portion. Serve on a cake plate and garnish with whipped cream.

Macaroni-Fruit Salad

1/2 lb. elbow macaroni
1 cup chopped apples
1 cup mayonnaise
1 can fruit cocktail
1 cup chopped celery
Cook macaroni in salted, boiling water, till tender. Drain and chill.

VERY LATEST

By Patricia Dow

Designed in sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26 and 28. Size 14 requires 1 1/2 yards of 39 inch material, plus 3/4 yards of 1 1/2 inch bias binding for trimming, together with 2 1/2 yards of ribbon for belt and bow.

SLEEPING OR LOUNGING PYJAMAS

Pattern No. 8793: This new pyjama design will cause a lot of boudoir chatter because it has "what it takes to get along" in a big way!

The comfortable generous cut of the ensemble gives real invitation to sleep, while the smart tailored jacket with the notched collar and jaunty belt and bow, make it an attractive attire to lounge or work in.

Styled in Hollywood, where the phrase "the simpler, the smarter" is used as the style yard stick, this pattern is easy for you to make in just a few hours. You'll be thrilled over the better fit and appearance your own handwork will bring.

Choose China silk crepe or perhaps a polka dot silk crepe with the white accents brought out in the buttons and bias binding.

For Pattern, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired) your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to Patricia Dow, (Wainwright Star) Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

When cold, combine with the vegetables and fruit. Marinate with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaf.

Chocolate Pecan Slices

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
Pecan nut meats

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler; add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water 5 minutes or until mixture thickens. Cool for 5 minutes. Drop large tablespoonfuls of chocolate mixture into halved or chopped pecans and work nut meats into surface. Form into roll. Chill in refrigerator 3 hours or longer. Cut in slices.

Maul Ice Box Cake

1 tablespoon gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
1 cup hot Hawaiian pineapple syrup
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg whites
1/2 cup whipping cream
Sliced sponge cake or 2 dozen lady fingers
1 1/2 cups Hawaiian pineapple gems
Maraschino cherries

Soak gelatine in water 5 minutes. Dissolve in hot pineapple syrup, add sugar and salt, and stir until dissolved. Add lemon rind and juice. Chill until jelly starts to thicken, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Line sides of an oblong mold with sponge cake or lady fingers. Fill mold with alternate layers of pineapple mixture and sponge cake or lady fingers. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve garnished with the pineapple gems, cherries and additional whipped cream slightly sweetened, tinted a pale green and put on the cake with a pastry tube. 8 servings.

Ripe Olive Salad Mold

2-3 cups sliced ripe olives
1/2 cup flaked crab meat
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Few drops Tabasco sauce
4 tablespoons tomato catsup
1 cup heavy cream
24 short asparagus tips
Lettuce
Whole ripe olives
Moisten gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Add slowly to mayonnaise, beating briskly to prevent "stringing". Add lemon juice, salt, Worcestershire and Tabasco sauces, catsup and blend thoroughly. Add cream, sliced olives, and crab meat and blend. Let stand until thick but not firm. Place 4 asparagus tips upright blossom end down, in each of 6 individual molds (flat bottomed paper cups are ideal). Fill molds with salad mixture and chill until firm. Unmold onto lettuce garnished salad plates. Surround base with whole ripe olives. Serves 6.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

Next Sunday is Mothers' Day and flowers and chocolates will be in order!

The C.N. depot is in the hands of the painters this week in preparation for the visit of the King and Queen next month.

Miss Marion Lane is away to Fort Saskatchewan for a visit with friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Mills have now taken up their residence in the Billing block on Main street.

Mrs. Kirk Snyder and young son of Edmonton were in town during the week for a visit with relatives in town.

Mr. Vaughan Ganderton arrived from Powell River last week and to spend the summer with his parents and family here.

We are sorry to learn that little Lorne Good, Jr., is a patient at the hospital these days, and wish him better.

Dr. Gordon Maynes writes to inform us that having resigned his position at Merco he will be in Wainwright for a short time about the middle of May, and desires all those with outstanding accounts to call and see him for the purpose of making settlement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collett, Jr., have now moved into their new home on Third avenue east, the Armstrong cottage.

It is very pleasing to note that Mrs. Alec Adams, who was a recent operative patient at the hospital, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home at the beginning of the week, and is feeling greatly improved in health.

Mr. Earl Prickett and family motored over to Hardisty last week end for a trip.

During the severe storm on Friday evening last quite a lot of hail fell, possibly the worst of this being in the Sydenham district.

The high winds and storms of the past few days have delayed seeding somewhat around this district.

The Alma Meat Market is sporting a new delivery truck this week.

Be prepared and thou shalt thrive! Mr. Farmer, be prepared; or better still, allow the O.K. Shoe Repair the privilege of preparing for you. Take advantage of the fine repairs and pleasing prices we offer to put your harness and equipment in first-class shape for the coming spring work.

Mr. Geo. Held is recovering nicely now from his sickness caused by a badly poisoned finger for which he has been under treatment.

A fire practice was held at the high school during the past week, with the fire chief in attendance, too.

The St. Andrew's (Pres.) church will hold a combined Mothers' Day, with church and S.S. at 11 a.m. on Sunday next. For the evening service "Model Woman" will be the subject of Dr. Stevens' discourse. The Mothers' Day service at Sydenham school will be conducted at 2.30 p.m.

COMING EVENTS

The ladies of the C.W.L. will hold a Mothers' Day Tea and Home Cooking Sale on Saturday afternoon next in the showroom at the Brunker Service Station. Drop in and have your tea-cup read! Everyone invited.

The members of the L.O.B.A. will hold a whist drive in the Masonic hall on Tuesday, May 16th, commencing at 8 p.m., 25¢ each; lunch will be served.

REFRESHMENT BOOTHS FOR JUNE 3rd CELEBRATION

The Committee are open to receive offers to supply Refreshment Booths on the Fair Grounds on the occasion of the coming visit of Their Majesties to Wainwright on June 3rd next.

Offers to F. Johns, sec., Box 10, Wainwright, on or before May 15th, 1939.

Mrs. J. Habbirk and her little daughter, Norma, are here from Paradise Valley on a visit to Mrs. Habbirk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sutherland. They expect to leave for home at the week end.

Miss M. Oddy of the bank staff, is away to Spokane, Wash., this week on her annual holiday period.

Mrs. F. S. Russell, of Edmonton, who has been here during the illness of her sister, Mrs. Alec Adams, returned home on Saturday last.

No matter how careful a driver you may be, you need insurance on your car—the other fellow may be celebrating his birthday! Don't take a chance; carry a policy. Joe Welch, for car insurance.

Mrs. W. Huntington left hurriedly on Wednesday last upon receipt of the news that her brother, Mr. W. Isted, was seriously ill in hospital in Vancouver. Mr. Isted was glad to welcome many old-timers here, he having resided here for some years in the early days.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Currie have now moved into the Telford cottage at Fourth and Ring streets.

A Mothers' Day tea and home cooking sale was held on Saturday last in the I.O.O.F. hall when the St. Thomas W.A. ladies were glad to welcome the nice crowd which attended.

Mr. W. Seal is busy these days decorating his Fifth avenue home with a coat or two of paint.

Rev. Mr. Boas, the new vicar of St. Thomas (Ang.) parish here, arrived in town by car from Winnipeg on Monday evening. Mrs. Boas will be arriving later in the week.

In the showroom of the Brunker garage on Saturday next, the ladies of the C.W.L. hope to welcome a large crowd at their Mothers' Day tea and sale.

We understand that Herb Wilson is preparing to do his usual splendid job of decorating the Federal building for the coming visit of Their Majesties, and no doubt the Elite theatre and the other business places will all follow suit to this auspicious occasion.

The Legion Notice Board

Any members requiring Legion Field Service Pattern Caps are requested to get in touch with the secretary. As is generally known the services of this branch of the Legion have been offered to the R.C.M.P. during the time the royal train stops in Wainwright on the morning of June 3rd next. This offer has been accepted and the only stipulation made was that each man on duty would wear a Legion head dress.

It is expected that this branch will be asked to help in all ways to make this unique event the success it should be. There will be a great deal of work to be done early on the morning of June 3rd in the way of helping the school authorities in getting the different schools in place and properly arranged. This is one event where there can be no last-minute pushing into place. The royal train will not await our convenience. We must be ready and the only way to assure that is to start early.

It is fully expected that there will be many members in from outside points and we are confident there will be no lack of willing hands to help the Celebration Committee in every way possible.

Mrs. Alice Currie, who has been staying with her daughter, Mrs. A. Adams, for some time, left for Edmonton last week end.

The Huttery Carriage are now the official carriage agents for the Atlas Lumber Co.

Bob Smith left for Artisan on Saturday to work on the section.

Louie Borden is back at school after a visit spent with his grandmother.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the offices for the Wainwright School Division No. 32 are to be moved from the Federal building to a house on Fourth avenue west some time before the end of this month.

Another patient on the sick list this week is Mr. Oliver Alexander, and this cheery milk-vendor is being missed.

A closed golf tourney is being arranged by the local club for May 24th. Mr. Ray Crosswell is the new secretary.

The Coutsler challenge golf trophy changed hands on Sunday last when Messrs. Crosswell and Springbett beat Messrs. Keenan and Bibby, the holders of the cup.

Mr. Eric Heffernan was a business visitor to the city at the beginning of the week.

From latest reports Mr. Jas. Robinson is progressing nicely away from his recent siege of flu and pneumonia.

Even the weather is brightening up, so clean up and paint up—and get all your supplies from the Atlas yard where every requisite is on hand for your needs. Joe Welch, phone 37.

MEMBERS OF SECOND FARM DEBTS BOARD

The Dominion government has set up a second board of review in Alberta under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act.

The new chairman is Mr. Justice Shepherd, Lethbridge, and the Commissioners are A. P. Mitchell, of Millar, and J. A. Dyde, of Edmonton. Bruce Whittaker, of Edmonton, is to be solicitor to the board, and J. C. Marshall, Edmonton, official receiver. Edmund F. Morton, of Vermilion, is to be assistant solicitor.

Since the administration of the Act started in Alberta, there have been 5,519 proceedings under it, and there are 1,400 cases waiting. The original board of review has disposed of over 4,000. Approximately $15,000,000 of debt has been struck off out of an affected total of $40,000,000. Reductions in interest amount to $1,250,000 yearly.

MART ACT CLAUSES ARE IN EFFECT NOW BY PROCLAMATION

Two parts of the Alberta Marketing Act, passed at the recent legislative session, have been brought into force by proclamation. This proclamation opens the door for the implementation of the act and the measures contained therein.

Provision is made in one part for the appointment of a provincial board of five members or less, while in the other part questions of general application are dealt with.

It is expected that the government, now that these sections are in force, will proceed with the appointment of the entire marketing board.

So far only the chairman, George A. Claah, formerly of Medicine Hat, has been named.

Expectation is that Part 1 of the Act, providing for formation of commodity boards, will be proclaimed in the near future.
